

I believe that the FCC has sadly failed in its duty to protect the airwaves. So, I guess that democracy doesn't matter to the 3 of you who maintain the majority of the vote in the FCC. Thanks for dismissing any interest in demanding truth in reporting.

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions have illustrated the dangers to localism caused by media consolidation. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
